

HEADS OR TAILS

EXT. SCHOOL - DAY

Casey is sitting at a bench. Taylor walks up and sits down.

TAYLOR

Heard you're doing pretty well in Maths.

CASEY

Yeah, I suppose...

TAYLOR

How did you go in that probability test?

CASEY

I actually find probability pretty easy.

TAYLOR

You do? I've always found there's a big difference between theoretical and practical probability. The universe is inherently...chaotic.

CASEY

How so?

TAYLOR

The world is a...dangerous place. Anything could happen. One minute you're acing your Maths test...the next...

CASEY

Wait...are you threatening me?

TAYLOR

Take this coin for example.

Taylor produces a coin with a flourish, putting it down and pushing it across the table.

TAYLOR

In a universe that is so unfair, surely chance is the only form of justice.

CASEY

I didn't mean to upset you.

TAYLOR

(mimicking Casey in a feeble, infantile voice)

"I didn't mean to upset you." What's it going to be? Heads...or tails?

Casey looks uncertain.

TAYLOR

Call it.

CASEY

I don't even know what we're betting on!

TAYLOR

Everything.

CASEY looks around as if seeking help.

CASEY

Heads.

TAYLOR flips the coin. CASEY watches it ascend and fall back into TAYLOR'S palm, revealing tails. TAYLOR gives an evil stare.
